

New College Statement

Title	Vaginal 'Rejuvenation' and Cosmetic Vaginal Procedures
Statement No.	C-Gyn 24
Date of this document	July 2008
First endorsed by Council	July 2008
Next review due:	July 2011

There have been an increasing number of clinics offering cosmetic vaginal procedures like "vaginal rejuvenation", "revirgination", "designer vaginoplasty", "G spot amplification, etc.". What is involved in these procedures is often unclear since recognised clinical nomenclature is not being used.

The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists (ACOG) Committee on Gynecologic Practice produced a document discouraging the practice of such procedures⁽¹⁾. This was also reported in the Australian media⁽²⁾.

There are a large number of variations in the appearance of normal female external genitalia⁽³⁾. Gynaecological conditions that merit surgery include genital prolapse, female genital mutilation and labioplasties with clinical indications. Medical practitioners performing any vaginal surgery should be appropriately trained.

Patients requesting procedures other than for gynaecological conditions should be assessed thoroughly and the reasons for such a request assessed carefully. Sexual counselling is also recommended for patients requesting surgery that is purported to enhance gratification. The College is particularly concerned that such surgery may exploit vulnerable women.

The College strongly discourages the performance of any surgical procedure that lacks current peer reviewed scientific evidence other than in the context of an appropriately constructed clinical trial. The real risks of potential complications such as scarring, permanent disfigurement, infection, dyspareunia and altered sexual sensations should be discussed in detail with women seeking such treatments.

References

1. Vaginal “rejuvenation” and cosmetic vaginal procedures, ACOG Committee Opinion No. 376. American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists. Obstet Gynecol 2007;110: 737-738.
2. Griffin M. Surgeons nipping and tucking at a hidden frontier. The Age. April 8 2007. <http://www.theage.com.au/news/national/surgeons-nipping-and-tucking-at-a-hidden-frontier/2007/04/07/1175366538273.html>
3. Blank J. (1993) (ed) Femalia. Down There Press: San Francisco.

Disclaimer

This College Statement is intended to provide general advice to Practitioners. The statement should never be relied on as a substitute for proper assessment with respect to the particular circumstances of each case and the needs of each patient.

The statement has been prepared having regard to general circumstances. It is the responsibility of each Practitioner to have regard to the particular circumstances of each case, and the application of this statement in each case. In particular, clinical management must always be responsive to the needs of the individual patient and the particular circumstances of each case.

This College statement has been prepared having regard to the information available at the time of its preparation, and each Practitioner must have regard to relevant information, research or material which may have been published or become available subsequently.

Whilst the College endeavours to ensure that College statements are accurate and current at the time of their preparation, it takes no responsibility for matters arising from changed circumstances or information or material that may have become available after the date of the statements.